SUBJECT: Aerial Surveillance Imagery Interpretation Support for ACDA/WEC/FO-R/A-110

ACDA/WEC would like to increase reimbursable agreement R/A-110 from $5,000 to $15,000 as we discussed in our telephone conversation last week. The terms of reference would remain the same since the additional expenditure is required to provide an increase in support effort (man-months) within the scope of the present contract.

As you are aware at the time we initiated R/A-110 we were not able to identify specific tasks. The terms of reference was written in general terms which called for the contractor to provide aerial photography interpretation and analysis support as directed by specific task assignments.

At this time two specific tasks can be identified. These tasks are to provide the required aerial imagery interpretation support for Field Study FS-33 "U.S. Deactivated Missile Launchers" and for Field Study FS-31 "Application of National Information Collection and Analysis Capabilities to Arms Control Verification".

The objective of FS-33 is to identify and describe indicators which could be used to determine whether a missile site is operational, demilitarized and/or deactivated.

A number of overhead photographs have been obtained of US deactivated missile sites and to accomplish a comprehensive study it is required to have an experienced photo analyst examine these photographs. As part of this effort the contractor will make a comparison analysis of these photographs with photographs taken of the same types of missile sites when they were still operational.

As a part of FS-31, ACDA personnel are participating informally in the [redacted] side-looking radar test program. The purpose of this participation is to make available to ACDA information concerning the possible future application of radar imagery to arms control verification problems. This effort will be coordinated with the analysis work being performed at NPIC in connection with the [redacted] program. Radar imagery analysts at [redacted] will be tasked to identify those items of information which can be interpreted from radar imagery and which could have particular significance in arms control verification problems.

In view of the low level of effort involved and the close technical relationship between these aerial interpretation tasks and that of NPIC sponsored research projects, it appears mutually desirable to accomplish these tasks under our existing reimbursable agreement. If this additional expenditure is agreeable with your office, please contact me, telephone number 632-1874 or IDS code 101, extension 21874 so that I can have our contracting officer initiate the appropriate action.
